

Connect the Social Sector Ecosystem, Empower Your Grantees, and Drive Maximum Impact

Funders have the great responsibility and challenge of gathering and analyzing large quantities of information in order to ensure maximum impact across the community.

SureImpact provides a way for funders to understand the extent of the change they are making through their investments, and how they can improve each step of the way – while connecting their entire social sector ecosystem.

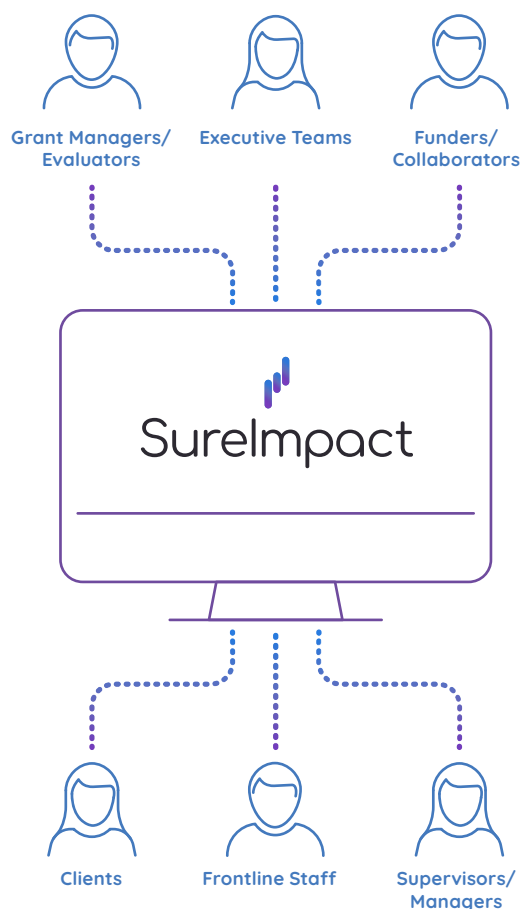

SureImpact is a user-friendly data collection, reporting, and analytics platform that connects funders, collaborators, grant managers, evaluators, and grantee staff with impact data. With SureImpact, funders can standardize the data collection requirements for the whole network, increasing data quality and simplifying grant reporting.

The platform was built for the social sector by people who have been working in the government, nonprofit, and collective impact initiatives for over twenty years and have a deep understanding of the unique needs of social sector organizations and their funders.

Empower your grantees to improve the sustainability and effectiveness of their entire organization by joining the SureImpact community.

TURN DATA INTO INSIGHT

The social sector has historically struggled with the ability to capture and share data in a way that drives insight. Information guides foundation decision makers, including grant managers, evaluation directors, and executive leadership, in making decisions that drive mission-aligned impact. However, the options for data gathering have multiplied exponentially, moving foundations to consider how they manage the data and turn it into actionable information.

SureImpact simplifies the process for determining which grantees will drive the most impact. SureImpact automates a foundation's ability to measure total agency impact year over year and cross-compare it with other agencies in their portfolio. SureImpact also enables grantees and grant managers to import data from external sources so all key data are in one central location for analysis.

IMPROVE VISIBILITY

Real-time data visibility drives increased effectiveness, efficiency, and overall impact for all members of the social ecosystem. SureImpact gives foundations and other collaborators a real-time view to the insights they need to make important decisions and understand the impact of their investments. Foundations can also identify trends across organizations and even program areas. No more waiting until the end of a grant cycle to receive an emailed spreadsheet from each individual grantee.

SureImpact enables grantees to collect, manage, and share data to demonstrate their impact story. Frontline staff have insights they have never had to manage the impact of their work and executives and leaders have access to data at their fingertips.

INCREASE CAPACITY FOR GRANTEES

When it comes to supporting grantees, funders can encounter technological and human barriers. Foundations are in a unique position to help build the technology capacity of their grantees in order to improve the sustainability and effectiveness of the organizations, thus increasing their impact on the community.

This increased technology capacity also greatly benefits foundations. Instead of grant managers having to manually review cumbersome spreadsheets, grantees enter their own data and standardized outcomes metrics directly into SureImpact, saving grant managers countless hours and headaches. Foundations also have easy access to data that enables them to identify areas of potential improvement and provide additional support for grantees.
